FACULTY VACANCY ANNOUNCEMENT

The Humanities Department at Hostos Community College invites applications for a Lecturer position to begin in Spring of 2019. The successful candidate will have interest in teaching college and high school students, providing service, and have the capacity to help with student speech competitions, theatrical productions, theater festivals, and study abroad. Applicants should also have the capacity to participate in student guidance and curriculum development as well as other tasks normally associated with a full time position.

The Visual and Performing Arts unit of the Humanities Department offers courses as far ranging as painting and drawing, art history, digital design, animation, public speaking, acting, music, and audio recording, students can pursue many possible creative paths. The successful completion of courses in the arts are a useful and, in many cases, essential basis for study in other disciplines. They are also a valuable source for personal development. The Visual and Performing Arts unit now offers an Associates of Applied Science (AAS) degree in Digital Design and Animation as well as in Digital Music.
