FEELINGS OF HOME: FOLK CULTURE AND MEMORY

Feelings of Home: Folk Culture and Memory speaks of art that serves the purpose or function to preserve collective memory and storytelling within communities. The exhibition explores how history and expression are experienced through movement, textiles, clothing, games, and other modes of representation that intersect with day-to-day experience. The show highlights art works that are created collectively and live most fully alongside people, and explores how those works are transformed by migratory or generational experiences.
